PROGRAMME FOR VIOLINIST It Contains Works by Franck, Paganini and Vieuxtemps. The most important musical event of the season will take place this evening in Slater hall when Albert Spalding, the distinguished young American virtuoso, will give a violin recital, assiste dby Andre Benoist, one of the most noted accompanists in the country.

Mr. Spalding has a reputation as an artist which extends from coast to coast, and beyond the seas, as his art is nearly as well known abroad, from Scandinavia and Russia to Egypt, as it is in his native land, but all Americans feel a particular thrill of pride in the fact that Spalding is a young men in whom American character and the culture of Europe have conspired to make a viclinist of the first rank.

"Made in America" is a slogan which is much abroad in the land today. Albert Spalding is one of the best products which America has given to this age and all patriotic Americans take a just pride in being able to claim as their own a wollnist who has car-ried in triumph the banner of Ameri-can art to the high place it now occuples. Following is the programme that will be given at the recital this

Sonata in A Cesar Franck Allegretto ben Moderato

Allegro Ben Moderato Largamente Allegretto Poco Mosso Concerto in D Paganini Prize Song Wagner-Wilhelmi from Die Meistersinger

Tickets for the Spalding recital are $1, all seats reserved. They are now on sale at the store of George A. Davis where they can be obtained up to 5 o'clock this afternoon, after which time they will be removed to Slater hall, where they will be on sale before the concert begins.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Famous Arnold Day, Appearing in Ar Affair of Three Nations.

As Ashton-Kirk, investigator, in An Affair of Three Nations, the famous Arnold Daly outrivals any Sherlock frolines in his superb detective work at the Colonial theatre today. The story tells of Ashton-Kirk, a young man of high social position and great wealth, a deep student and learned in the lore of ancient tablets and forgotten books. His keen mind delights in these mysteries which have presented. those mysteries which have proven too shadowy for the police. He finds a joy in the hunt; there is a thrill in the matching of his intelligence against the craft of the criminal. The dissolute son of Count Drevenoff, a Russian, makes a superhuman effort to steal a copy of a treaty of the czar's government with the United States. The count is sent to war and is wounded. The paper falls into the hands of Dr. Morse, an American doctor serving at the front. Later, in America, the doctor is murdered, but Ashton-Kirk, after unraveling many mysteries and having many thrilling experiences and hair-breadth escapes, manages to keep the paper from fall-ing into the wrong hands, thus avert-ing a possible war. This feature is one of the famous Pathe Gold Rooster fea-tures, famous the world over, and the scenery, photography, acting and adaptation are all beyond criticism. As usual with the Gold Rooster features, the biggest five-reel offerings of Pathe, there are countless surprises and novelties, to say nothing of the startling and dare-devil incidents introduced in the course of the unfolding of the plot. Tomorrow is the massive World Film feature entitled The Cotton King, pre-senting George Nash, the famous cre-ator of the character in the tremendously successful stage version.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Elsie Janis in a Paramount Feature Friday and Saturday.

Twas Ever Thus, with the charming Elsle Janis as the star of a brilliant Bosworth, incorporated, production, is the attraction at the Auditorium theatre for today and Saturday. No matter what airs and what graces men may have taken on since the world, has been secured by Mrs. Henry H. Bridgman as the soloist for the annual Lincoin's Memorial concert today as when they lived in caves and wore the skins of wild animals unon Bosworth, incorporated, production, is the attraction at the Auditorium the-atre for today and Saturday. No matwore the skins of wild animals upon their choulders. 'Twas Ever Thus shows the grim, unusual love affair of a prehistoric pair who dispose of a pursuing, trate father by means of the bludgeon at the mouth of the nuptial cave in the thick of a tribul selve. cave in the thick of a tribal fight. In vivid contrast comes an appealing story of Civil war times, when a Boston beauty and a young southern surgeon outwit the antipathy of the lat-ter's father the girl's "northern accent" and by a clever ruse actually line him up as the girl's staunchest champion. Finally, in the most dramatic episode of all, love again prevails in a stirring three-cornered affair between a weal-thy publisher, his gay young clubman son and Marian Gordon, a young New York writer who, when her novel is rejected, enters the wealthy publisher's house as a domestic to "get every". house as a domestic to "get experi-ence," with some very interesting sen-timental results. Elsie Janis is splendid as the heroine of all three epi-sodes, and while she proves that mod-ern love-making is no different in spirit than it was thousands of years ago, she does prove nevertheless that Elsie Janis is at her best in "Twas Ever Thus, the latest in a series of screen comedies which have caused a

POETRY

A LEAP YEAR ANSWER. TO RENT Furnished rooms, well thave listened, Amaryllis, I have heard your story through,
heard your story through,
heard your story through,
heard your story through,
as I remarked to Phyllis, I believe it all is true—
It doth ring, O quite sincerely, and it for I love you quite as dearly as the moconheam loves the night.

It is sweet to know you love me with the whole of your dear heart.
And by all the stars phove me I would gladly do my par!
For I find my love is burning not less ardently than yours.
And the substance of my yearning my sincerity assures.

But—I feel toat I must say it—though my lips would rather not—
In this game of life I play it at a pace
that's rather hot.
I'm a man of many fancies for the luxuries of life.
And I've some extravagances that might yex a willing wife.

I have clubs—some ten or twenty—and a score of motor-cars.

Father gives me money for my neckties and cigars.

As you know I'm quite a dandy, and my costumes are au fail—

Seven suits all spick and spandy are my portion every day.

I should say that forty thousand it now costs to play the game—
That's the sum my dad allows, and you would have to do the same;
So that when you come to court me I must akk one thing of you:
Do you think you can support me in the style I'm customed to?
